

• Add

Gnostic Nativity Of Christ.....

- Posted by Dr. Sohini Ben Shukla on December 18, 2013 at 12:48pm in Wisdom
- Back to Wisdom Discussions

Gnostic Nativity of Christ by Gnostic Instructor

"It would be worthless for the Christ to be born one thousand times in Bethlehem if he is not born in our hearts as well. We have to form Christ within ourselves in order to enter through the doors into the triumphant and victorious city on Palm Sunday. Christmas is a cosmic event that must be performed in each one of us. The Nativity (Christmas) is absolutely individual. It is necessary for the Christ to be born in each one of us." - Samael Aun Weor, Tarot and Kabbalah (1978)

It is important for all of us to visualize, to understand, to comprehend, what Christ is, because there are a lot of mistaken interpretations and assumptions of what Christ is, and also the Nativity, which in this day and age is called Christmas.

The word Christmas comes from the word Christ, whose root is in the Greek language. Christ in Greek is written with the letter chi, which has the form of an X, called kchi, so, when you write Christ in Greek, the "Ch" has the form of an X, which relates to another hieroglyphic with which Christ is very often represented: when you place a P on the X.

pax

But really, the letter, which in Latin is P, is the letter R or Rho in Greek. So, when you write X and Rho, you are symbolically pointing at the activity of Rho or Ra, the fire, because the R is a symbol of the fire in activity. Ra is related with the Solar Force among the Egyptian hieroglyphics or Egyptian myths. Amon-Ra, or the God Ra, is the Solar Light.

Nun (the waters) lifts Ra (the Sun, Christ)

Nun (the waters) lifts Ra (the Sun, Christ)

So these letters X and R (Greek) or X and P (Latin) are a very ancient symbol of Christ, that fire. In Gnosticism we always emphasize that Christ is fire. That is rooted in the Greek word. The Greek word Kristos means anointed, an adjective of "Khriein," to anoint.

Also from this X, or Greek letter chi, comes the word ictus (Greek: ιχθυς, IXΘΥΣ or IXΘYC) which means fish, which is an ancient symbol of Christianity.

yin-yang-fish-2

In the Greek letter X (chi), we see a relationship with the word chi in Taoism that is represented by two fish in the form of an X, the symbol of Yin Yang, or the two forces or two polarities, which are diluted in the universe. Yin Yang are the two polarities of the same energy, the chi energy, represented in the X and Pi, or X and Rho of the Greek alphabet. And this is because Christ is the source, is the energy, from where everything emerges.

When you observe the infinite, which is formed by millions of galaxies, it brings into our memory the statement of Einstein, who said: "The infinite tends to a limit." By direct experience, we know that this infinite to which our galaxy belongs, tends or extends to a limit; it has approximately 100,000 galaxies and more; but after this infinite's limit, you find an empty space, and then you find another infinite. So, the theory of many infinities is something that we study in Gnosticism. Of course, you have to imagine 100 000 and more galaxies, organized, just in one infinite.

galaxy-cluster

Gnostic Nativity of Christ

by Gnostic Instructor

"It would be worthless for the Christ to be born one thousand times in Bethlehem if he is not born in our hearts as well. We have to form Christ within ourselves in order to enter through the doors into the triumphant and victorious city on Palm Sunday. Christmas is a cosmic event that must be performed in each one of us. The Nativity (Christmas) is absolutely individual. It is necessary for the Christ to be born in each one of us." - Samael

Aun Weor, Tarot and Kabbalah (1978)

It is important for all of us to visualize, to understand, to comprehend, what Christ is, because there are a lot of mistaken interpretations and assumptions of what Christ is, and also the Nativity, which in this day and age is called Christmas.

The word Christmas comes from the word Christ, whose root is in the Greek language. Christ in Greek is written with the letter chi, which has the form of an X, called kchi, so, when you write Christ in Greek, the “Ch” has the form of an X, which relates to another hieroglyphic with which Christ is very often represented: when you place a P on the X.

But really, the letter, which in Latin is P, is the letter R or Rho in Greek. So, when you write X and Rho, you are symbolically pointing at the activity of Rho or Ra, the fire, because the R is a symbol of the fire in activity. Ra is related with the Solar Force among the Egyptian hieroglyphics or Egyptian myths. Amon-Ra, or the God Ra, is the Solar Light.

Nun (the waters) lifts Ra (the Sun, Christ)

So these letters X and R (Greek) or X and P (Latin) are a very ancient symbol of Christ, that fire. In Gnosticism we always emphasize that Christ is fire. That is rooted in the Greek word. The Greek word Kristos means anointed, an adjective of "Khriein," to anoint.

Also from this X, or Greek letter chi, comes the word ictus (Greek: $\iota\chi\theta\upsilon\varsigma$, $\text{IX}\Theta\Upsilon\text{C}$ or $\text{IX}\Theta\Upsilon\text{C}$) which means fish, which is an ancient symbol of Christianity.

In the Greek letter X (chi), we see a relationship with the word chi in Taoism that is represented by two fish in the form of an X, the symbol of Yin Yang, or the two forces or two polarities, which are diluted in the universe. Yin Yang are the two polarities of the same energy, the chi energy, represented in the X and Pi, or X and Rho of the Greek alphabet. And this is because Christ is the source, is the energy, from where everything emerges.

When you observe the infinite, which is formed by millions of galaxies, it brings into our memory the statement of Einstein, who said: "The infinite tends to a limit." By direct experience, we know that this infinite to which our galaxy belongs, tends or extends to a limit; it has approximately 100,000 galaxies and more; but after this infinite's limit, you find an empty space, and then you find another infinite. So, the theory of many infinities is something that we study in Gnosticism. Of course, you have to imagine 100 000 and more galaxies, organized, just in one infinite.

Galaxy Cluster Abell 1689

Gnostic Nativity of Christ

by Gnostic Instructor

""It would be worthless for the Christ to be born one thousand times in Bethlehem if he is not born in our hearts as well. We have to form Christ within ourselves in order to enter through the doors into the triumphant and victorious city on Palm Sunday. Christmas is a cosmic event that must be performed in each one of us. The Nativity (Christmas) is absolutely individual. It is necessary for the Christ to be born in each one of us." - Samael Aun Weor, Tarot and Kabbalah (1978)

It is important for all of us to visualize, to understand, to comprehend, what Christ is, because there are a lot of mistaken interpretations and assumptions of what Christ is, and also the Nativity, which in this day and age is called Christmas.

The word Christmas comes from the word Christ, whose root is in the Greek language. Christ in Greek is written with the letter chi, which has the form of an X, called kchi, so, when you write Christ in Greek, the "Ch" has the form of an X, which relates to another hieroglyphic with which Christ is very often represented: when you place a P on the X.

pax

But really, the letter, which in Latin is P, is the letter R or Rho in Greek. So, when you write X and Rho, you are symbolically pointing at the activity of Rho or Ra, the fire, because the R is a symbol of the fire in activity. Ra is related with the Solar Force among the Egyptian hieroglyphics or Egyptian myths. Amon-Ra, or the God Ra, is the Solar Light.

Nun (the waters) lifts Ra (the Sun, Christ)

Nun (the waters) lifts Ra (the Sun, Christ)

So these letters X and R (Greek) or X and P (Latin) are a very ancient symbol of Christ, that fire. In Gnosticism we always emphasize that Christ is fire. That is rooted in the Greek word. The Greek word Kristus means anointed, an adjective of "Khriein," to anoint.

Also from this X, or Greek letter chi, comes the word ictus (Greek: ιχθύς, ΙΧΘΥΣ or ΙΧΘΥC) which means fish, which is an ancient symbol of Christianity.

yin-yang-fish-2

In the Greek letter X (chi), we see a relationship with the word chi in Taoism that is represented by two fish in the form of an X, the symbol of Yin Yang, or the two forces or two polarities, which are diluted in the universe. Yin Yang are the two polarities of the same energy, the chi energy, represented in the X and Pi, or X and Rho of the Greek alphabet. And this is because Christ is the source, is the energy, from where everything emerges.

When you observe the infinite, which is formed by millions of galaxies, it brings into our memory the statement of Einstein, who said: "The infinite tends to a limit." By direct experience, we know that this infinite to which our galaxy belongs, tends or extends to a limit; it has approximately 100,000 galaxies and more; but after this infinite's limit, you find an empty space, and then you find another infinite. So, the theory of many infinities is something that we study in Gnosticism. Of course, you have to imagine 100 000 and more galaxies, organized, just in one infinite.

galaxy-cluster