

The strength of your heart

Each of you has different situations that house different challenges and degrees of difficulty. What appears to be easy for some dear souls is considered and felt quite difficult for others. Let there be no judgment towards another dear soul's challenge unless you are able to put yourself in their shoes and feel entirely what they feel. What will make each step of each difficult and trying situation easier is by aligning yourself with the Light and Love of God. In order for you to make your life more meaningful, your soul is to be fully aligned with God and His Infinite Light through the devout commitment you will apply through the loving actions of your heart. Your commitment to maintaining your connection with God regardless of your circumstance will provide you with the ability to sustain love, hope and sincerity. Without your ability to commit daily to being completely aligned with God and with His Light and Love, you will eventually become rooted once again within the interests of your Ego and the powers of feeling separate and not united will begin to take effect. When you are willing to commit and to align your whole self with God, the strength of your heart and soul will always find a way to sustain unity regardless of the situation or circumstance that you may be facing.

Being aligned with God and with His Endearing Light and Infinite Love is more than a personal need; it is a deeply spiritual and planetary need as well. Understandably, life that moves, lives and breathes is also shaped by the life and values of each dear soul and this inner understanding is reciprocated by the shape and life of not just one dear soul, but by your entire Earthly home. Therefore, we encourage each of you to not think of what you do, what you think or feel to be unimportant or not of equal value because each of you has something of equal value to contribute. The future that so many dear souls are pushing so hard to reach depends on your ability to work together, by being able to accept each other, to acknowledge each other's differences as valuable, necessary, loved and appreciated. Comprehend, for ease of your transition and evolution it is essential to be a reflection of your powerful expression of love that is unconditional, and shared with each you by God that is adopted by each dear soul's willingness to commit to the attainment of manifesting a ceaseless connection with the source of God's Love – with His heart.

As you grow and develop in all ways you were meant to, may you always feel the sacred power of God's Light and Love, as it will be the healing salve needed as you move from one chapter to the next. Let go of the duality consciousness and bring home a consciousness of unity that is fostered by pure unconditional love and compassion. We wish for each dear soul to be removed from the feeling of separateness and embrace the unity and oneness of each dear soul as brother and sister of God, working together for the greatest of good for humanity, where there is no fear, no resentment, and no animosity; where there is only love for all.
